President of Latvia Egils Levits met today with the new Minister for the Interior Marija Golubeva to discuss the Minister's plans for the development of the system of the interior.

The Minister introduced the President of Latvia with her vision regarding the possible pay raise for employees of the system of the interior, as well as the improvement of the employee education and training system.

The President of Latvia highlighted that internal security needs to be a budget priority, because, compared to other areas, it has continuously been overlooked. Both parties to the meeting discussed in detail the possible improvements to be made within the system of the interior.
